Slide intro

Em Bm Em Em                      Em (fret7) Bm Em Em
G A C Bm      G D Em Em

Em                      D                      Em                      Cma7      Am Bm                      Em
Sometimes when I'm feeling down and blue                      I feel a need to pray

Em                      D                      Em                      G                      D                      Em
Emotions fight within my mind                      Forming words I never say

G                      Em                      D                      Em
Won't someone listen to this voice inside

C                      D                      Am7 Bm7      Cma7
Strangled words that slip and slide

Dsus                      D                      Em
Avoid my grasp, are never heard

Em                      D                      Em                      Cma7      Am                      Bm                      Em
Smiling eyes hide the pain inside                      strain to hold back the tears

Em                      D                      Em                      G                      D                      Em
Casual conversations get me by,                      they don't reveal my fears

Won't someone listen to this pain inside

C                      D                      Am7 Bm7      Cma7
Confused emotions tryin' so hard to hide

Dsus                      D                      Em                      CHORUS
Buried deep, don't see the light

Em                      D                      Em                      Cma7      Am                      Bm                      Em
Sometimes the mask begins to slip                      and my demons start to play

Em                      D                      Em                      G                      D                      Em
The sun and you won't come and rescue me from the darkness of the day

Won't someone listen release me from this hell

C                      D                      Am7 Bm7      Cma7
Behind these walls that I built so well

Dsus                      D                      Em                      CHORUS
My voice is loud but you don't hear

Em                      D            A                      Cma7
 Won't someone    listen to    what I'm trying to    say

                     G/B                      G/Bb                      Asus                      A
 If you care to look I'm an open book so please don't turn away

 Am                      D7                      Gsus                      G
 I can find some    peace of mind if    you can help my friend

                     Gm                      Cm                      Dsus                      D
 If you listen to these    messages I'm trying so hard to    send

 Bm                      Cma7                      B7                      Em trying so hard to    send            I'm gonna get there in the    end
